

Competing in Today's Global Economy

CDI's innovative solutions reset the bar and focus school leaders, teachers, parents, students and communities on becoming competitive in the global market.

Global Competence™

The No Child Left Behind Act of 2002 calls for annual testing and greater accountability, and many school districts are focusing on school improvement initiatives to assist students in meeting the Adequate Yearly Progress requirements. With great emphasis on data analysis, assessment and student reporting, how do we balance our education efforts toward having students master the skills and objectives required to show progress while continuing to challenge and prepare them to compete in a global market?

CDI America is proposing innovative solutions to reset the bar and focus school leaders, teachers, parents and communities on becoming competitive in the global market.

Global Competence™ is an integrated approach designed to address critical skill areas to help students compete on a global scale including math, science, critical thinking and knowledge of foreign languages and cultures.

To compete in the global job market, students today need a firm grasp of global issues and strong language skills. Global Competence provides classroom teachers, students and school leaders with a rigorous curriculum aligned to state and national standards delivered through a series of online courses designed to focus on international applications.

Students will demonstrate knowledge in formats that go far beyond standardized testing. Global Competence offers students authentic assessment opportunities in real-world applications. They will be challenged to use effective oral and written communication and critical-thinking skills to promote their ideas with students, community and business leaders in their own communities and throughout the world.

CDI America is currently assembling an extensive team of partners with content expertise in a wide range of subject areas, using a variety of presentation formats and media to deliver instruction. All instructional content and assessment tools for Global Competence are web-based and allow students from anywhere in the world to participate at any time of the day or night.
